

All of us are experiencing a truly unprecedented situation. The coronavirus (COVID-19) global pandemic is affecting every aspect of our lives, from how we work to how we conduct our daily lives at home with our families. As a manufacturing company, we are no different and we are waking up every day to new information about how COVID-19 is affecting our communities, our employees, our customers and our partners.

Coast/ACM is standing firm in our company values, in putting customers first, in teaming and working together for the best outcomes, in deciding and acting in a way that makes an impact, and in learning and adapting so that we can help our employees and customers adjust to this new way of life.

Our primary concern is the health and safety of our employees, customers, and partners. That commitment covers everything, from making sure we are doing our part to “stop the spread”, to maintaining business continuity so that our customers and partners don’t have to worry about theirs. Like most companies and institutions, we are closely monitoring the latest information provided by the World Health Organization (WHO), the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and local governments, and we are adapting our plans to reflect the updated guidelines and evolving situation of COVID-19.

Coast/ACM maintains a continuous state of operational readiness and is working across teams and time zones to ensure that our core functions and sites are activating their Business Continuity Plans. Our employees are equipped with the tools necessary to continue to do their jobs, collaborate and support one another, and engage with our customers and partners to drive the best outcomes possible.

We remain confident in the power of our people and of our collective ability to come out stronger. Please know that we are doing our part and are here to serve when and where needed. Our focus is on keeping our employees safe and maintaining our business continuity so that we can help you keep yours.

Thank you for your trust and continued partnership.
